2. Reason for the revision

Forecast on net sales is maintained as the previous announcement in consideration of the depreciation in Japanese yen, however, forecast on operating profit is revised due to the deterioration in display market. In addition, forecast on profit attributable to owners of parent is revised to reflect the aggravation of the share of loss of entities accounted for using equity method and the gain on step acquisitions generated at the acquisition of Sakai Display Products Corporation as our consolidated subsidiary.

Note: The aforementioned forecasts of financial results are based on information available and deemed reasonable to the Sharp Group at the time of announcement and are not commitments made by the Company. Actual operating results may differ materially from the forecast due to various factors. The factors that may influence the figures for final reported business results include, but are not limited to:

- The economic situation in which the Company and its group companies operates;
- Sudden, rapid fluctuations in demand for the Company's products and services, as well as intense price competition;
- Changes in exchange rates (particularly between the Japanese yen and the U.S. dollar, the euro and other currencies);
- Regulations such as trade restrictions in other countries;
- The progress of collaborations and alliances with other companies;
- Litigation and other legal proceedings against the Company;
- Rapid technological changes in products and services.
